To all you sporty ones out there, this one is for you.

Actually, scrap that. Whether you're the next Roger Federer / Shaquille O'Neal / Ronaldo/ Venus and/ or Serena, whether you play sport for funsies (endorphins, hello), or whether you've got the coordination capacity of a giraffe on stilts and find flat surfaces challenging, you'll enjoy what we've got for you this week. Sporty or not, get ready for the marriage of 2013 that puts Kate and Wills' little affair to shame- the marriage of Arc and Sport!

To celebrate this union is the Festival of Sport- check out page 11 for details of events. Other sporting goodies include an interview with UNSW cricket pro Tom Rogers, a battle-of-the-sports feature that attempts to decipher which sport rules supreme, and a Go Clubbing Q&A with the perky UNSW Cheerleading Society. Ready? Ok!

It's also Anti-Poverty week at UNSW, so check out our info graph on page 15 for some sobering statistics on student poverty (and how to get help if you're struggling).

To quote the super inspirational Nutri-Grain ads, you only get out what you put in. So get involved with Arc and Sport to get the most out of Week 11!

Until next week-

Chris Mann
Chair of the Board

Hey readers,

This week marks the beginning of a new partnership between Arc and Sport @ UNSW. The university previously helped run these clubs, but now they've handed the flame over to us. This merger is great news, even for those of us who are a little less sporty! Arc will not only improve the existing services to the current sports clubs, but we're planning to run even more social sporting events to encourage you to get out and have a bit of fun.

For all the post-grads out there, this week you have the opportunity to vote for the Post Graduate Council for 2014. Check your emails for the link with details on how to vote.

This year, three positions went uncontested, so I would like to congratulate Sharangan, Bruno and Sam who are the new President, Vice President and Research Officer on the 2014 PGC respectively. I would also like to wish the remaining nominees the best of luck.

See you on the courts,

-Chris

We Don't Like Cricket, WE LOVE IT!

It's an exciting time for sport at UNSW. The merger of Arc with already existing sporting programs means more opportunities for rising athletes, like cricketer Tom Rogers. With a Ben Lexcen scholarship under his belt and a baggy green in his sights, this week Tom gave us the lowdown on what it's like to be passionate about physical activity (which, to be honest, the Blitz team is still slightly baffled by).

For someone who doesn't follow sport at all, can you tell me a little bit about our cricket team? Are we any good?

Yeah, we're pretty good! The last two seasons we've been minor premiers in first grade. We made the finals in all three codes last year. We've also produced four state players in the last two seasons and one international player.

Phew, I'm glad to hear we don't suck! Have you always been passionate about cricket?

I've always loved my cricket. I grew up in Canberra playing through the programs there, and then moved to NSW to try my best to get into the NSW Under 19s team and play first grade in Sydney.

Do you dream of playing for Australia one day?

Definitely. Every kid who plays cricket growing up dreams of putting on the baggy green and playing for their country.

Which is worse: getting out for a duck or being hit for a six?

That's a really hard question. They're both terrible! I reckon getting out for a duck is probably worse, because you gotta walk off and go through the crowd and all the people.

Are you excited about the merger between Arc and sport?

It'll be fantastic, I think. The club is a really good place to play cricket and you get a lot of support from the uni, especially through the scholarship programs on offer and the points given to elite athletes. I think this will make it even better. The more our uni gets involved, the better.

How do you find a balance between your study and your sport?

I guess growing up – playing cricket and soccer and everything under the sun – it's something you've got to manage. I was lucky enough to get support all the way through and heaps of support up here when I came to UNSW through the scholarship program. The help from UNSW has been fantastic. That's what allows me to balance it all out.

What advice would you give to others thinking about applying for scholarships?

I would definitely recommend it. Whatever level you play at, the club is great place to play. There are great coaches who are ex-Australian cricketers. The amount of support that you get to do well in your studies and do well on the cricket field is outstanding. I don't think there'd be too many other places that offer that. The best decision I ever made was coming to Sydney and studying at UNSW.

Rally the troops and pick up your pom-poms kids, the Arc festival of sport is happening! To celebrate the super sweet new partnership between Arc and sport at UNSW, Arc is running a three day social comp. Blitz presents our very first battle of the sports, which pits the presidents of some of the coolest sports clubs on campus against each other to figure out which sport rules the roost (although they are all winners in our mind).

BATTLE OF THE SPORTS

FOOTBALL (SOCCER)

CAPTAIN: GREG SHARP

Give me a brief rundown of Football.

How is it played?

Football (or soccer) is the most popular sport in the world and is played in most countries. It is a team sport where players use their legs, feet, head and torso to pass a ball and score goals. The nature of the game means players may be sprinting, running fast or slow, and sometimes standing still. Playing football provides a number of benefits including building strength, flexibility and endurance, as well as promoting teamwork.

What do you love about representing UNSW in sport?

UNSW is a strong brand and the Football Club has a good reputation. The members of the club are a great bunch of people.

What are you looking forward to about Arc & sport?

With Arc now closer to UNSW Sport, there is an opportunity to have greater exposure in student life and grow the sport. The sky truly is the limit with Arc involved.

What are some of the recent highlights or successes for your team?

The 2013 outdoor season is drawing to a close, with September being finals month for Football NSW competitions. All seven teams (two men's and five women's) are currently playing in finals. The women's teams were crowned Club Champions and both U12's and Reserve Grade was Premiers. In our local competitions, our AA6 team were Grand Final winners and UNSWFC A were crowned League Champions.

CRICKET

CAPTAIN: DANNY BHANDARI

What do you love about representing UNSW in sport?

UNSW has a proud tradition of playing high level cricket. We have produced international players (Geoff Lawson, Michael Slater, Daniel Christian, Timm Van Der Gugten and Tom Cooper), as well as current NSW stars Chris Tremain and David Dawson. We play at the highest non-professional level in the world against some of the world's best players.

Regardless of the level of cricket, it is a friendly club which allows people to be their very best, promoting the development of good citizens as well as good cricketers.

What are you looking forward to about Arc & sport?

Better collaboration, promotion, events and awareness of sport across the University.

Finally, why is Cricket the best sport?

Cricket is Australia's favourite sport. The Australian cricket captaincy is considered the highest office in the land. It has been played across this great country since mid-1850s. Our players can achieve national and international success from their UNSW club performances and make a career out of cricket if they choose.

VOLLEYBALL

CAPTAIN :MARGARET SARLEJ

Give me a brief rundown of volleyball.

How is it played?

Volleyball is played between two teams of six players separated by a net. To score a point, the ball must either hit the ground within the boundaries of the opposition's side of the court, or be touched by an opponent before landing out of bounds. Each team may touch the ball up to three times before hitting it back over the net, but the same player cannot touch the ball twice in a row.

What attracted you to playing volleyball?

Volleyball is a sport that is both physically demanding and technically difficult to master, and the challenge really appealed to me. The team aspect has also been a very important part of why I have continued to play.

What do you love about representing UNSW in sport?

I love the atmosphere that comes with being part of the club, with players from different teams supporting each other at tournaments and socialising together afterwards.

Why should other students play volleyball?

Volleyball is not only good for exercise and fitness, but it's also a great team sport. This makes it a fantastic way to make friends at uni. Most of my best friends are people that I've met through volleyball over the years.

ULTIMATE FRISBEE

CAPTAIN: YEW ENG NG

Give me a brief rundown of Ultimate Frisbee.

How is it played?

Ultimate is a seven aside team sport played on a soccer sized field. You score by completing a pass in an end zone. It's the cutting of soccer, the accuracy of basketball, and the running of gridiron, all combined into one sport with a flying disc.

What are some of the recent highlights or successes for your team?

This July we had ten home-bred UNSW players represent Australia in the Under23 World Championships in Toronto. This year, we are also the only university based team to successfully qualify for the Australian Mixed Ultimate Championships.

Why should other uni students take up your sport?

It's easy to learn, and really easy to get good at. Three of the girls who made the Australian team this year had joined the club no more than one year ago before getting really good.

SPORTS THAT WE WISH WERE REAL

BLERNSBALL

(FUTURAMA):

Baseball is a thing of the past in the 31st Century, replaced by the far superior game of Blernsball. In this game, the ball is attached to a tether, and fielders must stop it entering holes all over the field whilst avoiding cream pie throwing clowns and giant spiders.

FLONKERTON

(THE OFFICE):

The game guaranteed to cure even the most severe case of office boredom. Two 'athletes' attach boxes of printer paper to their feet and proceed to race across the office floor to their heart's content. The prize? Pure bloody satisfaction.

POKEMON

(POKEMON):

The ultimate blood sport, trainers catch monsters unawares, enslaving them so they can battle against other dudes or dames. It's best known for its element of questionable parenting, as ma's and pa's let their offspring go off alone into the wide world at the tender age of ten.

CALVINBALL

(CALVIN AND HOBBS):

There are only two rules to this sport: make the rules up as you go, and you can never play with the same rules twice. With necessary equipment including croquet sets, badminton sets and a hobby horse, this fast-paced game captures the essence of a child's imagination. If you wanna hold onto your youth, it's time for a spot of Calvinball.

WHAT'S ON UNSW

Arc FESTIVAL OF SPORT

WHEN: Wed 16 Oct - Fri 18 Oct
WHERE: Various VERDICT: Let's get physical!

To celebrate the joining of Arc and sport, this promises to be one of the biggest events of the year!

Whether your idea of enjoying sport is playing social netball, rock-climbing in solitude or drinking beer while watching the cricket, the Festival of Sport has something for everybody. We picked some of our favourite events from the jam-packed line up of awesomeness.

SOCIAL SPORT COMPETITION

Think you've got what it takes to make it big in touch footy or 3 on 3 basketball? Or how about Ultimate Frisbee or futsal? Now's your chance to claim glory and badass prizes (like paintball). Register a team and score a UNSW Arc playing singlet. Grand final at 4pm on Friday. Go team!

WHEN: 11am-5pm, Wed 16 & Thurs 17 Oct
WHERE: @ Village Green

MECHANICAL BULL

WHEN: 10am, Wed 16- Fri 18 Oct
WHERE: @ Main Walkway

Yeehaw, cowboy! Dress in plaid and an Akubra and make like it's the wild, wild west. Throw one hand in the air and hold on tight as Samsung's mechanical bull tries to tenderise you the way you tenderise beef strips (it's only fair, really). Free laptop for whoever can stay on the longest.

BOOTCAMP

Listen up you lily recruits. You're about to have your mushy, cookie-dough asses whipped into shape. Bleed, sweat and cry your winter weight away until you look positively bangin' in your summer threads.

WHEN: 9am, Thurs 17 & Fri 18 Oct
WHERE: @ Village Green

COLOUR RUN

WHEN: 1-3pm, Fri 18 Oct
WHERE: @ Village Green

Didn't get to run on Foundation Day because of the shitty weather? Never fear, the rescheduled Colour Run is here! Make the gruelling task that is running seem a little less awful by letting volunteers pelt coloured powder at you. Cross the finish line looking like a rainbow.

BEEP TEST

Are you a masochist who likes exercise-induced torture? Well then have we got something for you! Dreaded by high school students all across the country, the agonizing Beep Test has followed you all the way to uni (kind of like the Chucky doll that kept on showing up on that kid's doorstep after he threw it out). Female and male winners will receive a free YMCA gym membership.

WHEN: 1-2pm, Thurs 17 Oct
WHERE: @ Village Green

Daily Mass

12.10pm
@ Quad, G055

The Catholic Chaplaincy at UNSW hosts a daily mass for students to pray and celebrate together.

ART & ABOUT

Love art? Love going for a stroll around good olde Sydney town? Get excited for the raddest outdoor exhibition this city has to offer!

Sydney's annual Art & About festival is back! It's the one month of the year where every nook and cranny of the city has the potential to become a canvas, and every street corner becomes a site of artistic expression. This year's theme is 'Private Lives... Public Places', so you can expect plenty of scandalous pop-up installations and artworks on display. Perhaps the most apt exhibition reflecting this year's theme is 'City Lines', where the dirty laundry of Sydney's residents will quite literally be hung around the CBD for all to see. Locals have been invited to share their deepest, darkest secrets with the brains behind this project, Alphabet Studio, so if you want to discover some of the outrageously suss shit that people get up to, this is the best way to do it!

Blitz also recommends you check out the giant snails that will be popping up in locations such as Hyde Park and the Pitt St Mall. Made entirely from recyclable materials, Snailovation is a harrowing exhibition that just goes to show how fking scary it would be if the world were invaded by an army of giant, multi-coloured snails. That's a world we don't want to live in.

If gossip and ginormous terrestrial pulmonate gastropod molluscs don't take your fancy, there are more than 50 events and exhibitions being held across the duration of the month long festival, meaning that it will be pretty much impossible to find something that isn't up your alley. Perhaps you'll be lucky enough to even have an artwork pop-up in the alley next to your house? One can only dream of such arty convenience.

For more info on Art & About, and a full list of events, head to artandabout.com.au

For your chance to win a double pass to see Art and About exhibition 52 Suburbs Around The World, email blitz@arc.unsw.edu.au with ARTY FART in the subject line and tell us your biggest secret.

LOOK

Doctor Who: Celebrating 50 Years
WHERE: ABC Studios, Ultimo
WHEN: 15 August-31 January 2014
COST: Free
It's hard to believe that a television show would stand the test of time for an entire 50 years, but the British institution known as Doctor Who has managed just that. Following the exploits of a mysterious Time Lord with a serious fetish for the human race, the show has paved the way for countless entries into the science fiction genres, and has successfully made actors such as Tom Baker and David Tennant household names. This exhibition serves as a loving retrospective to the show's extensive history, featuring a range of props, costumes and replicas that will get diehard fans in a frenzy when they spy them with their own eyes.

WATCH

Cult Classics: Alien (Director's Cut)
WHERE: Dendy Newtown
WHEN: 10am/6.30pm, Monday 14 October
COST: $12 Non-Members/$10 Club Dendy
Dendy Newtown's latest season of cult classics is gracing the silver screen, and you'd be a fool to miss out on the totally rad selection of films they've served up this time around. This week be sure to go and see Ridley Scott's 1979 sci-fi horror Alien, starring Sigourney Weaver in the role that paved the way for her super successful career as a Hollywood heroine for hire. The movie asks the question of what would happen if an alien with an appetite for human flesh hitched a ride on what is essentially a dump truck in space. The answer? Loads of death and destruction, of course.

SEE

Selling Dreams: One Hundred Years of Fashion Photography
WHERE: State Library of NSW
WHEN: 10 August-10 November
COST: Free
Have a passion for fashion? Get yo self to this awesome photography collection currently on display at the State Library, which highlights the best of the best within the fashion world. Building on photographer Irving Penn's infamous quote on his time at Vogue as 'selling dreams, not clothes', the exhibition celebrates fashion as a rich art form. With 60 photos on display, this is the only venue in Australia planning to exhibit the collection, so don't miss out!

BELOW THE LINE

The 'poor student living in squalor and surviving on Mi Goreng' is a stereotype perpetuated around the world, but just how true is it? Poverty seems like a strong idea to apply to students in Australia, but the sad truth is that more and more university undergraduates are slipping below the poverty line. Anti-Poverty Week aims to strengthen public understanding of the causes and consequences of poverty and hardship in Australia. Here are some statistics about student poverty down under:

25%

of international undergraduates have incomes of less than $10,000 per annum.

25%

Of employed full time undergraduates work more than 20 hours per week.

17%

Of university students regularly go without food or necessities as they can't afford them.

33%

Of Indigenous students reported they regularly went without necessities.

66%

Of students are worried about their financial situation.

50%

Of students say that work adversely impacts their studies.

80%

Of Indigenous students are worried about their financial situation.

80%

Of full time undergraduate students are employed.

66%

Of Indigenous undergraduate students receive no financial support from family.

X-Rated Books
We Dare You to Read on the Bus!

Wallbanger

The cover of Wallbanger by Alice Clayton depicts exactly what the title promises: some banging that happens against a wall. As far as we can tell from the synopsis, that seems to be pretty much the extent of the plot. Caroline Reynolds moves into an apartment with paper thin walls. Simon Parker lives next door. Each night, Caroline hears moans, spansks and meows (we're not making that up). The wall-banging gets so bad it 'threatens to literally bounce her out of bed'. Literally, people.

Long Hard Ride

Get your mind out of the gutter. The title refers to the fact that this is western themed erotica. Ok, ok, it also refers to the cowboy sex, but mostly the horse riding. According to the synopsis of Long Hard Ride, Channing Kinkaid is itching for an adventure with an 'untamed man'. Colby McKay is a cliché cowboy who wants Channing to 'horse around' (their words, not ours).

Pleasure Unbound

One Goodreads reviewer describes the cover of Pleasure Unbound as 'the epitome of cheap, soft-core porn'. Taylor Mancuso is a demon-slayer 'who hungers for sensual pleasure but fears it will always be denied her' (we're really not making this stuff up). Then, cliché alert, she gets the hots for a demon and it's all 'we totally can't bang because we're natural enemies but we're going to bang anyway'.

Breeding Cycle

'Each year lykaen princess Sarina Brunes goes through her breeding cycle - a powerful force that makes the desire to mate nearly inescapable.' Yuck. FYI book people, 'breeding' and 'mating' are the un-sexiest words on the planet. Apparently 'lykaen' is a fancy way of saying werewolf, which in turn is a fancy way of saying this is practically Twilight but with more sex. Oh, sorry, not sex - 'mating.' Shudder.

Carmen's New York Climax

With an author named Nikki Sex, how could Carmen's New York Climax possibly be bad? It's all about Kurt Nielsen, New York's most eligible bachelor, who for some reason is meeting a hooker in a hotel room (because eligible bachelors are starved for sex partners?).

DORIS Earl Sweatshirt

In 2010, a 16 year old rapper named Earl Sweatshirt released a free self-titled mixtape which graphically celebrated fantasies of rape, murder and suicide. The tape was so vile that, supposedly, once his mother heard the content, she sent him to a Samoan retreat school, and he wasn't seen for two years. On his return album, we receive the musings of a deeply troubled, hopelessly confused introvert with an unfathomable control of the English language. The result, Doris, is an uncomfortable reminder that 80 percent of your teenage years were pure misery for reasons you couldn't understand.

It's difficult to overstate Earl's ability as a lyricist; his grasp of words is unparalleled in the rap music landscape. Some verses will take dozens of listens to be properly digested, particularly because Earl is able to chain mind-boggling sentences together around typically mundane topics. Nonetheless, the album's greatest moments occur when the adolescent vividly communicates his insecurities, particularly on the excellent Chum and Pharrell-produced Burgundy. These fascinating monologues trudge through Earl's issues with absent fathers, antithetic mothers, perplexed girlfriends and dying grandmothers.

Similarly, the music assists in replicating these feelings of discomfort and mental instability. The production rarely sounds colourful, save for Pharrell's contribution and the album closer, Knight. Elsewhere, the beats sound like they've been submerged in swamplands, muffled underneath Earl's deadpan delivery. Everything sounds deliberately uneasy, from the off-beat piano riffs on Whoa to the lagging church organs on the Frank Ocean-assisted Sunday. Undoubtedly, it's the best rap release of 2013 so far.

DRIFT Directors: Ben Nott and Morgan O'Neill

Surfing movie Drift sees two brothers stand up against power-driven cops and ruthless bikies to sell boards out the back of their van (while constantly carving killer waves).

Set in the 70s, Drift is an Australian story of financial struggle combined with an obsession for surfing. Starting off with sombre black and white visuals, Jimmy (Xavier Samuel), Andy (Myles Pollard) and their mother, Kat (Robyn Malcom) escape their abusive father by taking the family car for a long drive. The three travel along the coast until they eventually hit a small town in Western Australia.

When cool cat, surf photographer JB (Sam Worthington) rolls into town, we see the beginnings of a surfing revolution. The Kelly brothers establish their own gear, inspiring the surf culture to thrive. It's not an easy journey, with authoritarian cops and disbelieving bankers, but Andy, playing the typical Aussie bloke, is determined to set things right.

With drugs sucking characters underwater, we are hooked in by the fear that the underdog will lose out.

Although slow to start, the story jumps into action as the boys barrel a few waves with some close calls. We see crystal clear currents, dangerous waves and the inside of barrels from the eyes of the surfer. Directors Ben Nott and Morgan O'Neill have captured the craziness of surfers leaving the rest of us in awe.

If the storyline doesn't provoke your curiosity, the cinematography of the film is sure to make any surfer drool!

•FILM CREDIT

R.I.P.D. Starring: Ryan Reynolds, Jeff Bridges,

If you're looking for the next blockbuster experience to feed your love of over-the-top action and groan-inducing comedy, then R.I.P.D. is the movie for you. Though nothing ground-breaking, this fun-filled fantasy adventure movie runs through fairly stock characters with enough twists, famous faces and digital effects to make it worth your time.

The film follows police officer Nick (Ryan Reynolds) after his death on a crime scene. As he moves on to the afterlife, he's disrupted by the Rest In Peace Department, which recruits police officers who have recently died to track down 'deados' (people who have died but whose spirits have managed to slip through the cracks and hang around the real world, still inhabiting bodily forms and generally wreaking havoc).

The plot is very predictable, so if you want a good story, avoid it. But if you're looking for something fast-paced and entertaining without gun wounds and bloody violence, it's all good fun. As well as this, R.I.P.D. is based on a comic book, so the visuals are pretty spectacular, both in cinematography and design. I'd even go so far as to say it's worth the few extra dollars for the 3D experience.

If nothing else, catch it for Jeff Bridges' performance which makes the most of his cheesy lines in ways even I wasn't expecting.

Tina Giannoulis

By allowing players to switch between the trio in and out of missions, you effectively direct the action. You choose your style of play, and avoid what you least prefer.

-GTA V

•GAME HIGH DISTINCTION

GRAND THEFT AUTO V

For Xbox 360 / PS3

Unashamedly ambitious, yet reassuringly inviting, welcome back to Los Santos in Rockstar North's most immersive, genre-defining title to date, Grand Theft Auto V.

Despite facing a stifling amount of hype, Rockstar exceeds expectations by improving almost every element of GTA's mechanics and rewriting their open-world rulebook.

Set in a satirical reimagining of Southern California, the game delivers a truly living world, and is overwhelming in every sense. As equally beautiful as it is chaotic, it's an environment that dares you to explore, with surprises everywhere you turn. It is this warped reality that acts as safe haven for the game's biggest innovation: its three protagonists.

Following the exploits of Michael, Franklin and Trevor invigorates gameplay, deviating from open-world routine. By allowing players to switch between the trio in and out of missions, you effectively direct the action. You choose your style of play, and avoid what you least prefer.

Mission design has similarly witnessed an overhaul, with there being greater player agency than ever before. Tasked with executing a series of audacious heists, it's up to you to acquire disguises and stash getaway vehicles. Do you play it smart by hiring expensive professionals, or wave a gun in the manager's face? The choice is yours (as are the consequences).

GTA V isn't simply this generation's crowning achievement; it sets the standard for what is expected from the next. As rewarding as it is vast, consider this a compulsory purchase.

So you think you want my job?

Tamsin Peters Marine biologist and PhD candidate

Tell us about how you became a marine biologist.

I did some marine courses by accident in second year and I was better at it and liked it more than the environmental science I was studying at the time. I liked it so much that I did my honours in marine science.

What's an average day like for you?

Totally unpredictable. It could involve teaching undergrads, it could involve lab work, it could involve sitting at my desk and writing, it could involve diving, it could involve snorkelling, it could involve a combination of all of those things squished into one day.

Do people have common misconceptions about what you do?

Everyone thinks I work with dolphins. I do not work with dolphins! I see dolphins sometimes, but I do not work with them. Everyone's always like, 'Oh my god, I really wanted to be a marine biologist when I was little so I could swim with dolphins.' There are more things in the sea than Flipper.

What part of the job do you love the most?

I like the mixture of activities. Even though the unpredictable nature of the job is annoying, you never have the opportunity to be bored. If I was sitting in a lab every day, I would hate it. If I was diving every day, I would hate it. I like that there's a good mix.

How about the downsides?

You can't really plan your schedule too far in advance because your life is a bit dependent on the weather. Diving in winter can be a bit soul crushing. Sea urchins lodging themselves in your knee is not ideal. Sharks are scary.

Finally, what advice would you give to aspiring marine biologists?

Make sure it's something you're passionate about, because you're in for long hours and long days. You need something to drive you, to keep you going, especially on winter mornings at 5am. Remember that it's not just dolphins. You need writing skills, an understanding of statistics and some good scientific principles before you can go off and be a mad dolphin frother.

Every fortnight, Blitz is getting one awesome peep to dish the dirt on finding a career that makes others totes jelly.

UNSW Cheerleading Society

The UNSW Cheerleading Society is the peppiest group on campus, a group of highly talented guys and gals who rep the uni in cheerleading on a highly competitive level. Blitz chatted to society President Olly Melville to learn more about their Cheerocracy.

First of all, what exactly is Cheerleading Society?
We are a cheer and dance society. We have a number of different teams, who train at various times throughout the week. We compete in competitions all throughout the year at the state and national level, and even have the opportunity to go overseas as well.

So I noticed that there are loads of different teams, both cheer and dance oriented, in the society. What's the difference between them all?
They are all different styles. There are the dance teams, which are not so much the Bring It On sort of style- they're actual dancing.

There is Pom which is done with pom-poms, and then we also have Hip Hop, Jazz and Lyrical teams as well. On the cheer side we have two levels; one is a harder group, and the other a beginner/basic sort of level.

You guys compete in loads of comps, both here and overseas. Tell me about some of the society's successes?
Our most notable success was in January when we actually competed at the University World Championships over in Orlando, Florida. We competed against teams from all over the world and we ended up with a bronze and fourth place in our two different sections.

Who should join the Cheerleading Society?
We usually have a prerequisite of some sort of dance or cheer experience. But in saying that we do get people joining who don't have any previous training. Obviously if you weren't experienced, you would then have to be pretty keen and willing to learn and give it a real shot. The bigger the personality, the better!

Shack Tutoring

Want to give back to the community and have your contribution recorded on your Graduate Statement? This week we chatted to Mona Sajeev, a volunteer from Shack Tutoring, about how helping underprivileged kids can teach you invaluable life skills.

For people who might not have heard about it, can you give us a rundown of what Shack Tutoring is and what you do?
It's a program where uni students volunteer to teach a high school student from a disadvantaged area. The aim is to provide a free tuition service to local students who might not otherwise have access to it. It's a really rewarding experience having the opportunity to help someone out and teach them about a subject you're passionate about.

What made you decide to get involved with Shack?
I heard about it last year. It seemed like such a great way to get involved while making a difference at the same time. I'd never done formal tutoring before, but I really liked helping out my friends with their school work.

What have you enjoyed most about being a part of the program?
Definitely getting to know the person I'm tutoring. He's in Year 12 and getting ready for the next stage of his life, so I've been helping him out with scholarship applications. It's just really inspiring to hear how passionate he is about what he wants to do and how he wants to help people. Having the opportunity to help someone follow their dream is an amazing feeling.

Who should apply to volunteer?
Whatever subject you're good at, that's something you'd be able to teach, so I would say everyone. It's not that much of a time commitment, so I think everyone should apply for it if they can.
