

My name is Ian Brown. I am a proud, young Gomeroi man from Moree, North Western NSW. I currently study a Bachelor of Arts, majoring in Indigenous Studies and minoring in Psychology. I have always had a strong passion for Indigenous Advocacy, which comes from my belief that every individual should have a voice/say in what happens within their communities (both home and educational communities). Change starts with a single dream, idea or thought. I believe that UNSW is the greatest university not only here in Australia, but on an international level as well; but in saying that UNSW as a collective have a long way to go. I believe that being a minority not only in Australia, but within UNSW, it is vital for Indigenous people to be represented and have our concerns and voices heard. I strive to be that voice to advocate for our Indigenous community at UNSW.