

Hi, I'm Lungol, 4th Year Environmental Management/Arts student by day and writer/performer by night!

Over the past three years, I've volunteered for Arc, been a director in three societies, been an executive in four (two of which I founded), joined multiple SRC collectives, and been the managing editor for Tharunka, UNSW's student publication. My extensive experience as both a leader and a team member in both Arc's volunteering and clubs spaces has given me a unique appreciation for and insight into how our student organisation functions.

I believe that we need a more robust approach to student safety and wellbeing on campus. I will push for measures protecting victims of gendered misconduct and advocate for greater supports for students and their mental health. As an international student and an LGBTQ individual, I will advocate for our inclusion and representation at all levels of our student organisation.
